California Bound: Adios y mil gracias to Annville's Premier Local Historian, Community Treasure & All-Around Good Guy

President's Message, by Michael Schroeder

His pale blue eyes, open and expressive beneath a shock of blonde hair streaked with gray, twinkle with mirthful and mischievous kindness. In his inimitably enthusiastic, generous, and thoughtful way, he reflects on the first stirrings of his longtime fascination with our town's past, the importance of local history in knitting a community together, and his mixed feelings about launching into the next stage of his life. Family obligations in his natal state of California beckon, he says.

After a dozen years, the Reverend Dr. Paul Fullmer and his family are departing Annville.

To say that Paul Fullmer's departure will leave a gaping hole in FOOA's leadership, and in the community writ large, is rather an understatement. To get a sense of the depth of Paul's commitment and enduring contributions to the town, flip the page and peruse the covers of the booklets he's compiled on various aspects of Annville's history. Or spend some quality time with his book, Annville Township (2011), with its scores of photographs and life stories revealing the intricacies and quirks of our town's past. The impulse to share, to inspire, and to give back to the community seems woven into the very fabric of his being.

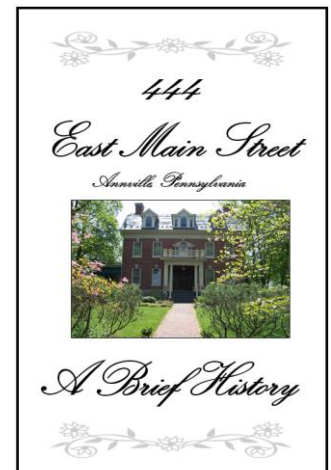

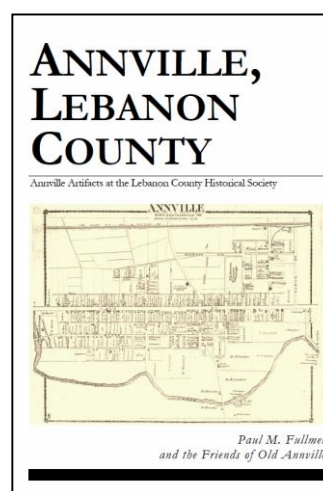

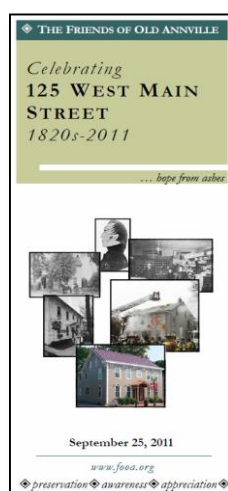

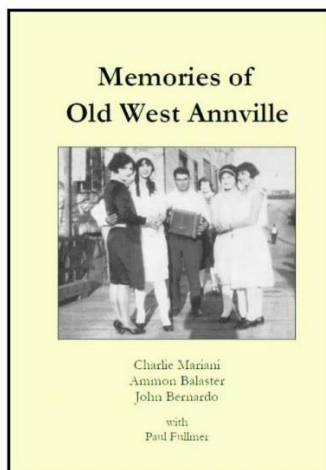

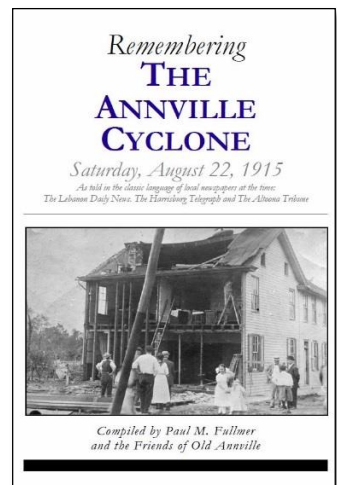

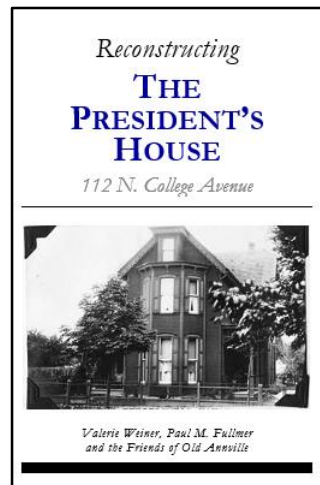

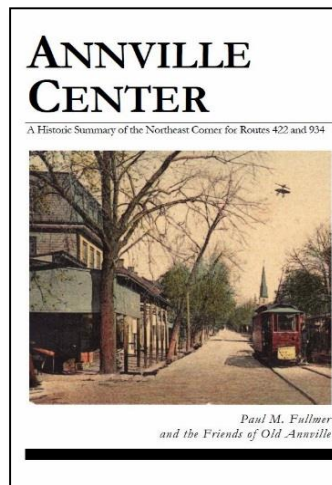

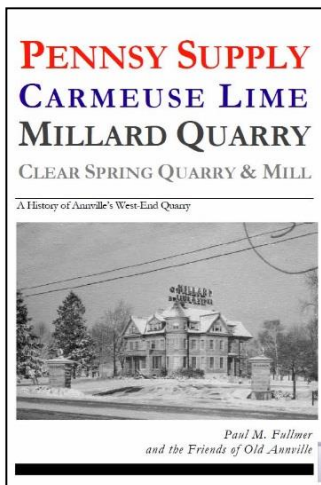

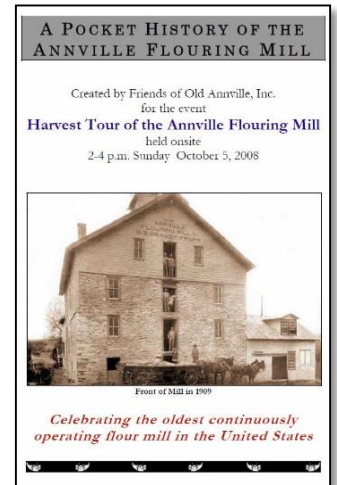

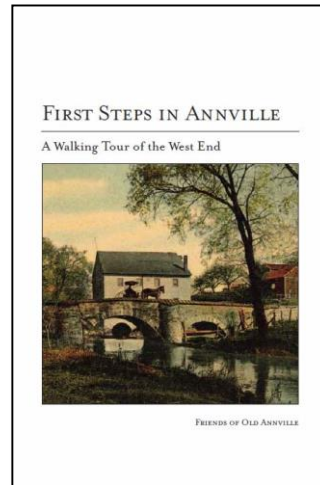

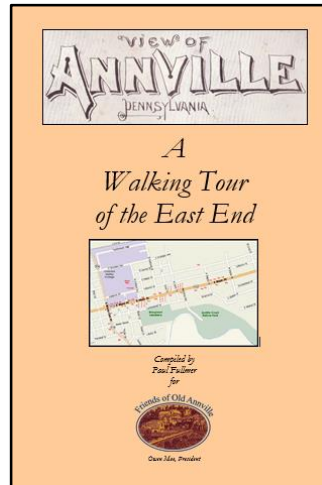

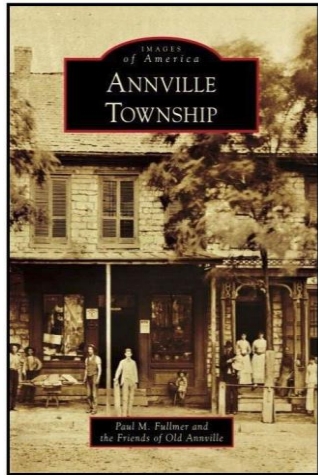

"The goal is to make history accessible to people," he says, as he tries to convey the deeply democratic impetus behind FOOA's electronic archives with its thousands of photos and documents. "There's something both fun and spiritual about knowing your local history - it enriches life so much when you can walk down the street and know, 'this is where David Kreider and his [two successive] wives raised their ten children,' or 'this is the former home of Daniel Fegan, who was wounded fighting for the Union in the Civil War.' It's about sharing, about getting involved, about being open to being inspired by these stories - because soon we'll all be history ourselves!"

We never really know the impact we're having when we preserve and tell the stories of those who came before, but if even a smidgen of Paul Fullmer's positive energy, generosity of spirit, and bubbling enthusiasm for Annville's history has rubbed off on the community and on FOOA, we're all the richer for it.

Adios, Pablo - y ¡buena suerte! We here in Annville and in FOOA will straggle on, somehow. We hope you know how much you're loved and appreciated. Years hence, when you're happily ensconced in California and looking back wistfully on your time here in Central PA, we also hope you'll find satisfaction and solace in the knowledge, as we do, that the mark you've made on our community over the past dozen years has become yet another indelible and inspiring part of Annville lore.

St. Mark Historic Quilt Raffle on Historic Old Annville Day

In the 1930s and '40s, Sadie Keeny of Pine Grove sewed several quilt tops. This may not seem especially remarkable, except that Sadie was in her 80's when she did it. Upon the passing last year of her grandson's wife, Kathleen Keeny, these quilts, finished and unfinished, were inherited by Shelva Kotsch of Annville. Shelva wishes to share one of these quilts with us, pictured at right, in a raffle to be held on this year's Historic Old Annville Day on June 10. The raffle will benefit St. Mark Lutheran Church and can be seen there during the day's festivities.

When received, this quilt top was pieced and had markings for hand quilting. The very usable nine-patch quilt was hand quilted and finished by Betsy McCall, Donna Salerno, and Kathy Moe. The finished size is 94 x 75 inches. Raffle tickets are $1, or 6 for $5. Drawing is at 2 p.m., Saturday, June 10, 2017, at 200 East Main Street. Tickets are on sale now through St. Mark Women and on Historic Old Annville Day at the St. Mark Lutheran Church at 200 East Main Street.

Enhancing Public Space: Annville Volunteer Tree Planting & Care Program

photo). The grounds of the Town Hall will also be the site of the group's first planting, where at 6:00 p.m. on Wednesday, May 24 they will plant a 'Wildfire' Blackgum (Nyssa sylvatica). The township will declare this day Annville's Arbor Day for the year 2017. In July, the group will be pruning the street trees on both sides of East and West Main Street. Interested parties and prospective volunteers are encouraged to contact the Town Hall for more information.

We're pleased to learn of a new volunteer community group, working in collaboration with township officials, dedicated to planting and maintaining healthy trees in Annville Township's public spaces. The initiative, spearheaded by Annville resident Erik Josephson of Josephson Nature Care, aims to educate community members on the intrinsic value of healthy trees to a healthy community, and on how to plant, nurture, and maintain healthy trees in an urban setting. The group first met on the grounds of the Annville Town Hall on Saturday, April 29, when Erik distributed educational materials on the benefits that trees bring to communities, and on proper planting and pruning techniques (see
